"WHAT INDEED?"

"What does a schoolmaster know about war?" ask the conversationalists. "What does a college professor know about martial affairs?" We h. no. b. for the Wilson policy—not for any war policy, for that matter—but what did George Washington, a surveyor, know about war? What did Abraham Lincoln, an uneducated railsplitter, know about war? What does Christy Mathewson, a checker player, know about pitching?—New York Tribune.
